HomeLogic Receives CEA 2005 Mark of Excellence Award

Marblehead, MA –March 1, 2005: HomeLogic is pleased to announce its OneHome Management and Control Solution has been selected by the Consumer Electronics Association's (CEA) TechHome Division for its 2005 Mark of Excellence Award for best Integrated System of the Year.

This award was announced at the CEA TechHome's 2005 Mark of Excellence Awards ceremony on February 25th in Orlando, Florida. The Mark of Excellence Awards recognizes products from various manufacturers and integrator/dealer installations that are in the forefront of innovation in the home automation industry.

"Being recognized by the Consumer Electronics Association's TechHome Division for providing the best integrated system is a great achievement for our company," stated Jim Herman, HomeLogic Co-Founder. "We work hard to provide comprehensive, cost-effective solutions that make it easy for homeowners to better manage and control the electronic systems in their homes."

HomeLogic's OneHome Management and Controls Solutions integrate leading sub-systems and provide a powerful and compelling graphical user interface for the homeowner. The systems are easy to learn, install, support and use. The homeowner and integrator may select to install the user interface with one sub-system or incorporate a variety of sub-systems including security, climate, lighting control, distributed audio, messaging, video surveillance, irrigation, and pool/spa controls into a whole-home, integrated solution.

"Our dealers have played a major role in helping us complete a most successful first year-plus of installing OneHome solutions," noted Joe Lautner, VP Marketing and Sales. "We are especially proud to receive this award on behalf of our dealers and customers who are enjoying the benefits of our products and services."
